PUEBLO, MEXICO, July 17.—General Huerta stopped on his way to his journey to this port and visited the night at Puerto Blanco in the state of Vera Cruz, the center of a district overrun by small bands of revolutionaries who have wanted they will never let the dictator reach the coast. Under the best conditions Huerta could not reach here before noon and it was unlikely that he would be here before late in the afternoon.

It was 6 o'clock this morning when he departed from Sierra Blanca, his train being preceded and followed by troops. No orders were given to the engineers to make up lost time. Huerta's failure to hasten his exit from the country was the cause of some worry to his wife while Señora Blumquist, whose husband, former minister of war, is with his old chief, was frightened into a state of hysteria by the delay.

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, July 17.—Declaring that the head nurse was too domineering, five nurses at the Memorial Hospital went on strike on Wednesday afternoon, while eight patients were waiting to be operated on. Their complaint was taken up by the board of directors that evening and the head nurse was sustained, the strikers being ordered to return to their posts.

The nurses refused to do this unless the head nurse was asked to resign. She has not done so and the strikers are still out. Misses Kelley and Moffat are preparing to leave for their homes in Steubenville, O. Miss Crisp will return to Leavenworth, Miss Krause to Connellsville, and Miss Whitford to her Georgia home.

When the nurses decided to quit, all of the graduate nurses that could be located were secured to assist in the operations and in the care of other patients. In the meantime other nurses were secured and the force completed.

The hospital has been particularly unfortunate with its nurses recently. Two of them were married a short time ago, two resigned and three were expelled for administering cocaine to a patient. Those with the strikers make a total of 12 that have left in a comparatively short time.

GIRLS NOT ARRESTED

Part 'They Played in Dumbur Affair' Somewhat Exaggerated.

Information which can be regarded as accurate indicates that considerable injustice was done two Dunbar girls, Miss Dana McGill and Miss Irene McGill, in the account of their connection with the Dunbar affair at that town some days ago. The young women were not arrested and no charges were preferred against them. They appeared as witnesses at the hearing of Egan, which did not set us far as apart.

The girls themselves assert that when Squire Foltz and Constable Pierce Baker led the crowd to the home of Mrs. Nee, they were on the porch with Homer Taylor. Egan, they say, was not of the party, but had gone along to protect Taylor, who feared he might be set upon by a party of young men. Mrs. Nee, they assert, was at the house at the time, which was not vacant, as had been reported.

Taking Big Chances. It is too late to depend upon neighbors or sending for medicine in case of a sudden attack of bowel complaint. In rural, sparsely settled neighborhoods, someone has died from cholera morbus that could have easily been avoided had this proper medicine been at hand. When think of the suffering that must be endured until medicine can be obtained. This safe way is to keep at hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It has never been known to fail and has undoubtedly saved the lives of many people. Buy it now. It only costs a quarter. For sale by all dealers—Adv.

Logical Reasoning

A business will prosper if its purpose is to give as well as to receive. Our business became large by studying the rights and wants of careful buyers. First, to have not only good goods, and to have them when wanted but on a lower basis than the same quality can be bought elsewhere.

BRYAN A SUFFRAGIST

Secretary Declares Himself in Favor of Votes for Women.

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 17.—Secretary W. J. Bryan, in a formal statement last night, came out for woman suffrage. He declared that he would ask no political right for himself that he was not willing to grant his wife and announced his intention of supporting the proposed state constitutional amendment extending the franchise to women to be voted upon in Nebraska next November.

Woman, Mr. Bryan said, had proved herself equal to every responsibility imposed upon her, and would not fail surely in this emergency. Above all arguments in favor of giving her the ballot he placed the right of the mother to a voice in the moulding of the environment of her children.

"The mother," the secretary said, "can justly claim the right to employ every weapon which can be made effective for the protection of those whose interests she guards, and the ballot will put within her reach all of the instrumentalities of government, including the police power."

Smaller Dividends Declared. The dividend recently declared by the Vanderbilt National Bank was 3 per cent on the earnings of the past six months instead of 6 per cent, as stated in The Courier yesterday.

Marry in Cumberland. John Sorell Hince and Ruth Chew, both of West Brownsville, were married in Cumberland yesterday.

THE NEW MOSES.

The editor of the Uniontown News Standard devotes the better portion of two columns of black-faced type on the first page of his paper to a personal explanation of his former employment as editor of the Uniontown Herald, this in explanation and defense.

Editor O'Donnell tells his readers that he did not split the Republican party in two, but that he found the factions here when he came and he found them "with murder in their hearts." He admits that The Herald under his management helped the money war along as much as possible, but declares that some of his articles had to be approved by the owners of the paper before publication.

It was probably a mistake that the owners did not examine and approve all articles of this character before publication. However, in common with all other Republicans and most other people, they now regard them as the waters that have passed their author, who has since become the mold and fashion of goodly Democratic journalism, seems to think that these waters will at his command run backward up the stream of time and divide the Republican party again. Moses divided the waters, but it is not recorded that he ever attempted to make them run uphill, and Moses was something of a politician too. He beat Pharaoh in his own district.

The Fayette county Moses, who by his own confession was formerly employed to foment factional strife and promote Republican party dissension in Fayette county, has undertaken to lead the Democratic party to the Promised Land. He has quite a job before him. The conditions are not so psychological as they were when he first got foot upon the land. Times have changed. Windmills have come with adversity. The folly of faction is apparent. The necessity of union is recognized. The Republican party is united. The Fayette county Moses has turned the record of factionalism to the wall and torn it in the words uttered in heated conflict. The new Moses may recall them as much and as often as he likes, but they will prove little interest. They are ancient history. We live in the present. The Republicans of Fayette county are fighting Democracy this year.

The Democratic party, on the other hand, is by no means united. The dissension of its patronage by the Fayette county Moses has made many Democrats willing to forget their party this fall, while many others believe that the prospects for the country is of greater moment to them than further allegiance to a political memory which whenever voted into office and activity succeeds in doing nothing but damage.

The barefoot Moses, however, is a man of some parts. He speaks with the lambs of the time. Turnell is not always a victor, but it's always stirring.

JOSEPH MOSSON.

The father of the fire brick industry of the Conneltsville region, full of years and honors, has passed peacefully away. The fire brick business will not miss him, but Conneltsville will.

"Uncle Joe" Mossion was a leading citizen for many years. He was a man of few words, but many deeds. His public spirit was proverbial. In movements looking toward community betterment, his name was always at the top of the list. His shoulder was ever behind the wheels of progress.

He knew no language but truth. His word was as good as his bond. His charity was broad and Christian. His ear attentive to the last degree, but when patience came: to be a virtue his determination was vitrified.

In the language of the flood book, he was "a good and faithful servant," and he has passed to his just reward, but his memory will linger long in Conneltsville.

The Democrats are on the defense, says the Uniontown Herald. They're worse than that; they're on the run.

The hay rake is trying to butt into an automobile class.

We trust the barefoot organs will claim credit for the army worms.

The Italians celebrated in an unusual manner.

The Mount Pleasant Democratic committee was recommended by the Hon. Martin Hays Green. Must be a Champ C. R. postmaster.

The deadly air gun is in need of recitation.

The city authorities insist upon all the suburbs being in order before any new street paving is laid.

Connellsville has portable teachers. Why not portable school houses?

JUAREZ.

By GEORGE MITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Bismarck."

Juarez was a Mexican Indian who was born in 1808 and received on the death of his father a full interest in the abject poverty of his family.

Up to this point Juarez was not different from most Mexican Indians who have been acquiring poverty from the Mexican government and handing it down to their descendants for 400 years. However, Juarez, when a boy, was educated by a charitable priest. To the great chagrin of a great many Spaniards who, like most white men, believe that education will only "make" when a white man is inoculated with it, Juarez became a speaker and politician and at the age of 20 he sat in the state legislature.

From that time Juarez led a busy life, participating actively in some revolutions and viewing others from a safe place on the side lines. Making presidents and afterwards reducing them to junk was the great Mexican occupation before 1870 and Juarez took a prominent part in the job. He helped bend Santa Anna into obscurity in 1855, became a minister of justice, which was a sure way and an easy job, since justice has never been introduced into Mexico.

Juarez held onto this job and other while presidents came, departed and went feverishly and in 1876 he decided to become president himself. After three years of fighting he was

He arrived at the Rio Grande slightly ahead of the opposition.

However, Juarez had no luck. The supply of enemies within Mexico being exhausted, England, Spain and France were imported to take their place. These enemies came down on Juarez for the payment of the national debts and in 1862 he arrived at the Rio Grande slightly ahead of the opposition.

Mexico now became an empire with Maximilian upon the throne. But Juarez went pluckily ahead, running northern Mexico, and now and then decaying a French company into the dust and mowing it up until it was of no further use. When the Civil War ended, the United States grewled once at France and the French troops went home. Shortly afterward Juarez went home. Maximilian and Juarez were both dead.

Like most Mexican presidents Juarez was much more popular while a struggling patriot than he was when he ran the country and tried to keep it in order. Other struggling patriots arose and he spent most of his time fighting them. In 1872 he died of apoplexy while still in office, thereby establishing a record which has not yet been equaled in Mexico. He was the only Mexican president to remain in office until he died without assistance.

Juarez did not have an easy very highly as a patriot in this country but he was about the best Mexico has to offer. It is evident that Mexico has elected too many white men to office.

WRIGHT-METZLER JULY CLEARANCE SALE

Is The Talk of The Town

Every other store here is proof itself that none can match Wright-Metzler goods or prices.

Some have not the patronage that warrants a quick outlet for big quantities of goods bought to sell at a saving over usual prices.

Some must buy round-about, paying more for a thing than the price at the source of supply.

Some buy poor-quality goods hoping to build a growing business on a shaky foundation.

Some entice the people into their stores with false advertising, tricky window displays and other means that may bait a shopper once—but never again.

Some let their stocks go to seed and never have the particular thing a person wants in season.

Some tie a can onto perfectly good trade by refusing reasonable requests for exchange—or money back—when a patron, once in a year, thinks he's bought a needless thing.

Some stores have too many prices on one piece of merchandise. The sliding scale is a suspicion-breeding method, because we hate to think a neighbor probably paid less than the price quoted us.
